In the event a check is returned for any reason, a $20.00 charge will be made to your account.

Intramuscular Manual Therapy – Trigger Point Dry Needling

The IMS treatment involves the insertion of very fine acupuncture needles into the tight muscle bands. IMS usually can't be felt when the needle is inserted into a normal muscle supplied by a healthy nerve. However, when the needle hits an area in the muscle that is tight, you will feel a cramping or tightening sensation. The technique takes just a few minutes to perform and usually the needles are taken out right away. You may feel immediate relief, or you may be discomfort for a few days where the needles were inserted. This should be followed by less pain, better movement, and a gradual return of function.

This technique can eliminate chronic pain and muscle tightness. Nerves and muscles work together to help your body move normally. When nerves become irritated or damaged, the muscles they control can become weak and painful. This condition is known as neuropathic pain. The IMS technique involves inserting tiny needles into the area of the muscle most affected by the nerve problem. While the procedure uses the same needles as traditional Chinese acupuncture, the technique is very different. IMS is a scientifically proven method for diagnosing and treating of chronic pain.

Like any treatment there are possible complications, though they are rare in occurrence, it is recommended you read through the possible risks prior to giving consent to treatment.

How Does It Work?

Nerves drive muscles. When the chemical relationship between the two is altered by problems in the nerve, muscle pain and weakness can result. The immediate benefits of IMS are due to the mechanical effect of the needle. This allows "knots" to be broken up and the muscle to start working properly. The longer-term benefit comes from restoring the tiny injury in the muscle. As the treated area heals, it releases repair factors that create a normal relationship between the muscle and the nerve.

Contraindications

IMS is not recommended for patients who are pregnant, have had a recent surgery, have a local infection or are hemophiliacs. Please inform your therapist if you are taking any medications (such as blood thinners).

Risks

There are risks associated with IMS, as with any needling technique. There is a chance of infection. However the needles used are sterile, individually wrapped needles that are discarded after each use, and alcohol is used to clean the area treated. A small bruise can develop where the needle is inserted if a small artery or vein is hit when entering the skin. To avoid lung puncture or collapse, or internal bleeding, IMS is never performed over major organs such as the lungs, or kidneys. It is possible to be sore for a few days after treatment, followed by decrease in pain, and greater flexibility. Fortunately, all the risks are rare and absolute care is taken to avoid occurrences.

Please let your therapists know if you have had any experience with any of the following:

Recent Surgery – Pregnant – Blood Disorder – Epilepsy/Siezure - Previous Fainting – Low Pain Tolerance

Any known disease or infection that can be transmitted through bodily fluids: YES or NO

If yes, please discuss with your practitioner.

Please sign for consent of IMS/TDN treatment and that you understand the treatment and its possible risks.
